NAPA Ambulatory  Anesthesia Services

NAAS.
On site.
And on your side.

NAAS partners with physician offices and independent Ambulatory Surgery Centers to deliver expert anesthesia services.

These days, more and more surgical procedures are being performed safely in physicians' offices, rather than in the hospital setting. In fact, it is estimated that over 10 million people will have a procedure performed in their doctor's office this year alone.

We're NAPA Ambulatory Anesthesia Services (NAAS), a division of North American Partners in Anesthesia (NAPA). And we apply the same strict, well-defined standards and high levels of patient care when administering anesthesia in an office setting as we do in a hospital. Because your patients deserve nothing less than the best.

for high-caliber care.

We recognize that physicians have a choice when selecting an anesthesia provider. That's why we ensure that our anesthesiologists meet rigid medical standards and are professional, courteous, thorough, and accountable.

Experienced in the delivery of office-based anesthesia, they also maintain ongoing privileges at NAPA's hospital sites, ensuring that their level of clinical skill and ability to react in emergency situations is always at its highest level. In addition, they provide the necessary emergency drugs and equipment, and follow exacting safety procedures, in order to diagnose, treat, and care for your patients in the rare event of a life-threatening situation.

Your patients will value the anesthesia care that you are providing for them when you choose NAAS as your office-based partner.

Specialists in Anesthesia Solutions.

At NAAS, we view physician relationships as partnerships, and we are constantly striving to deliver additional value. From assisting your office staff in procuring relationships with certain vendors to assisting (when applicable) in resolving managed care problems or addressing concerns of individual patients, the entire NAAS staff is at your disposal.

Headquartered on Long Island, NY, our dedicated team of physicians and management staff will work cooperatively and diligently with your office to provide a high level of service at all times.
